

Q&A

RULE #2
See rule one

This is not a Junk trip!

Offshore Game Fishing is an inherently dangerous sport, a rolling boat, sharp knives, hooks and gaffs, care should be taken at all times.
Read the terms and conditions and sign the indemnity form.
Being inebriated could result in injury or falling overboard.
Should the Captain deem that too much alcohol is being consumed the trip will be cancelled and boat returned to port.
Likewise, with any illegal substances.

What is included?

Water, Limited soft drinks, ice and all equipment is included.

What kind of fishing?

We primarily troll tow fishing lures behind the boat; fish will take the lure and hook up. Where we can, we will do some spinning or fly fishing; all rods are on the boat.

Can we keep the fish?

We encourage tag-and-release, but reasonable-sized fish can be kept for those onboard; the rest are released. They can be prepared for you to take home on the return journey.

ALL Billfish will be released

What types of fish are targeted?

All the Pelagius fish pass through Hong Kong. There are six types of Tuna: Wahoo, mahi mahi (Dorado), Barracuda, Amberjack, Yellowtail, Rainbow Runner, Sailfish, and Blue, Black, and Stripe Marlin.

Are children allowed?

By special arrangement and depending on the weather, eight years or above

What are the chances of catching a fish?

As with all fishing, there is no guarantee, but the chances are high as the South China Sea is one of the most productive in the world.

When is the season?

The season will start in March/April when the winter winds die down and will go through to September/October when the winds return.

How far do we go?

20-40 nautical miles offshore

Tight Lines
